“New Fire Multi-Purpose Training Facility Sets to Break Ground- RAIN or SHINE”

Riverdale, Ga.- On Tuesday, April 21, 2015 at 11:00 a.m. the Clayton County Fire & Emergency Services sets to break ground on their new multi-purpose training facility. In attendance will be state representatives, the County Commission and local leaders, and County department heads.

The new building was part of the approved 2009 SPLOST project. The facility will hold four 1,000 square foot classrooms that can convert into a large conference/seminar area that seats 200+ people. Along with the multi-use classrooms will be two EMS training labs utilized for training fire personnel with latest procedures and techniques in emergency medicine. This building will also house a state of the art fitness center for the health and wellness of Clayton County Fire & Emergency Services personnel. The Clayton County Emergency Management Agency will be based out of the new complex and will be the headquarters for the emergency operations, management, and mitigation of large-scale incidents and disasters. This new training facility will be the next step in creating a regional training complex that will provide the latest in fire, emergency medical and law enforcement tactical training.

The location of the ceremony is 7810 Highway 85 Riverdale, Ga. 30274 on the training grounds located behind the Headquarters building. The event will go on as scheduled, rain or shine.
